MINES AND MINING

Park City mines in the month of October yielded up a total wealth amounting to $290,000.

Progress at the Snake Creek tunnel in October amounted to 312 feet, and the face is now in 13,025 feet.

The Nevada Consolidated's quarterly report shows net earnings of $1,167,896 and a surplus increase of $354,108.

Alaska-Juneau's output of 2,000 tons daily will net $1,400,000, or 10 per cent on the capital stock of $14,000,000. The gold ore should net at least 10 per cent on the output.

Ray Consolidated will call for the retirement on December 31 of its $2,380,000 ten-year 6 per cent convertible bonds. The bonds are callable at $110 on any interest date.

Six mills are operating in the camp of Good Springs, Nevada, seven big motor trucks are hauling ore to the railroad and there are 600 men employed in the mines there.

Twenty-five shippers took part in the production of ore from the camp of Tintic in October, when a total of 643 carloads was the output. This is estimated at 32.15 tons and valued at $800,000.

Work on the new mill which is being constructed near Silver City, Utah, by the Tintic Milling company is being rushed. A large force of steel workers, carpenters and machinists is being employed.

Superintendent Harrington reports that the white lime formation at the New Quincy property has been passed through and that the drift has encountered a black limestone that is favorable for ore making.

Fifteen feet of ore, part of it showing free gold and running as high as $30 clear across is the remarkable announcement from the Rochester Mines company, which is blocking out one of the biggest ore bodies in the west today.

The Prince mine at Pioche, Nev., never has been in as good physical condition as it is at the present time and, with the treasury in a prosperous state, Prince shareholders have reason to feel that their interests are being well cared for under the present management.

One of the largest mining deals ever closed in Blaine county, Idaho, was consummated last week when a corporation of Spokane capitalists purchased the Croesus mine. It has been owned by Kilpatrick Brothers of Beatrice, Neb., and during the past two years but little development work has been done.

For the thirty days ended November 1, inclusive, northwestern mining companies have paid $1,344,156 in dividends, making the disbursements for the current year $7,706,790, which is more than the best previous record for any twelve months in the history of the industry, and increasing the grand total to $71,023,069.

All prior records for the production of copper during any quarter were broken by the Utah Copper company during the third quarter of 1915. During the period in question a total of 2,498,400 tons of ore was treated, being 283,241 tons more than the previous high record of the preceding quarter, when 2,215,159 tons were mined.

For the month of October the Coeur d'Alene district contributes dividends totaling $799,900 and British Columbia $544,256, while for the year the Coeur d'Alene quota is $6,587,634 and British Columbia's is $1,109,156. To date the Idaho payments since the first disbursement was made aggregated $54,601,507. Washington adds $449,216, Montana contributes $1,505,000 and British Columbia $1,467,346.

A convention that will act upon recommendations regarding a general revision of the federal mining laws will meet in Washington, D. C., on December 16. All the known mining societies in the United States have been invited to send delegates, and it is expected that the mining industry will be so well represented that the action of the convention will be regarded as expressing the wishes of the industry.

I base my calculations on knowledge of what the big war material manufacturers are melting and what they are planning to melt during the next six months.

During the month of October it is estimated that the camp of Bingham produced more than 1,000,000 tons of ore. The Utah Copper company alone has been outputting at the rate of 27,000 to 30,000 tons of ore a day, which of itself would amount to 800,000 to 900,000 tons in thirty days.

Final figures for the September production of the Utah Copper company show a total of 14,159,289 pounds. This is compared with 15,966,543 in August and 6,672,194 pounds in September, 1914, when the mine was on half time on account of the war depression.
